"I love what I do. I take care of the patients."

Peter Karuri has worked for 15 years as a CNA in Medical Surgical Services.

"I started doing this a long time ago. I took care of my mom, who has now passed away, and my sister. It's a passion for me, feeling that I helped someone achieve what they could not do."

Barbara Sabatino, RN, is our Surgical Services Manager. She oversees the OR, PACU, Surgical Admission Unit, GI, and the Pre Anesthesia Unit. She has worked at Auburn Medical Center for 28 years, starting before it became part of our family of hospitals.

"Lots of staff have been here longer than I have. There's a lot of longevity here. People come and they stay here until they retire because it's family."

Dr. Arun Mathews is the Chief Medical Officer of Auburn Medical Center and MultiCare Covington Medical Center. His primary focus is the quality and safety measures at both locations.

"Every day is slightly different here. It's a new series of interesting problems that we have to work through together as a team. Fundamentally, it's about keeping that sacred relationship between the healthcare team and the patient in the center of all our decision making."

Having relocated from West Texas, Arun and his family are in awe of Washington's natural beauty. "It is just amazing. We will turn down a road and the see the mountain and everyone starts screaming."

"Teamwork is amazing here. The people are great and management is just wonderful — you are not just another number."

Having previously worked at Tacoma General for 4 years, Jane recently started at Auburn MultiCare as Senior Administrative Assistant of Inpatient Services and the Family Birth Center.

"MultiCare is not just a company looking to help patients, but staff as well. They are really into education and training to take people further in their careers."
